

Seeds that Kill

DNA can be a good friend
– and a lethal enemy...

Julian Bonser

For Nathan Harcourt, life was idyllic. As a young city professional he enjoyed the usual clichéd ‘work hard, spend hard, play hard’ ethos. But it emerged he had an intractable problem, one that progressively dogged his life, until against all odds, his loving, and seemingly invincible relationship with his beautiful partner Raziya, started to crumble.

Unexpectedly a life-line was thrown by a well-wisher – gratis, no strings attached. In a heartbeat his life was redeemed – love and happiness back on track. But it wouldn’t last.

As now, his smiling benefactor had become the Devil incarnate, and set to collect their pound of flesh with sinister determination. Locked in a vice-like strangle-hold, Nathan is powerless to arrest his disintegrating life as it plummets downward in a fatal tailspin.

And worse is yet to come – in the form of a wizened and deeply embittered female from Nathan’s past who will seek an eye for an eye with cold, calculated malevolence, play god with his life, and wreak genetic mayhem on his immediate and extended family.

Bonds linking one generation to the next are so easily forged with a sigh, a moment of ecstasy, and the miraculous fusion of small cell clusters. But once created, a bloodline remains intact for all perpetuity, unbreakable by even the most powerful forces of Nature. In the life of Nathan Harcourt, this would engender a greasy pit of despair, vitriolic hatred, retribution most devastating, incest – and Murder.

About the author: Born in early post-war London, Julian Bonser has enjoyed a life rich in personal and professional experiences, along with extensive travel. Memories accumulated over the decades, together with a fascination for observing life and people, has provided Julian with the wealth of material he now busily crafts into fictional novels.

PUBLICATION DATE 1 October 2008

ISBN: 978-1848760-066 Price: £7.99

For an author interview or a review copy of the book contact: Julia Fuller
Troubador Publishing Ltd, 9 De Montfort Mews, Leicester LE1 7FW
Tel: 07870 864779 Email: marketing@troubador.co.uk