editor

Addison & Cole provides a professional editorial service for aspiring writers. We also act as scouts for literary agents.

We have a network of freelancing editors working in the publishing industry who have agreed to make their services available for independent writers. These editors have been carefully selected to include specialists in all genres, from science fiction to children's books. We also offer a comprehensive proofreading service. Whenever we come across work that shows real potential, we offer a recommendation to our contacts at leading literary agencies.

Everyone has their work read by friends and family, but this cannot compare to using a real editor. As you would imagine, the results speak for themselves. For clients referred to us by Matador, we offer a massive 15% discount. Contact us now.
