

ACTING SUSPICIOUSLY

The sixth book in The Mulgray Twins' cosy crime series featuring an undercover agent and her sniffer cat Gorgonzola

Acting Suspiciously, by authors Helen and Morna Mulgray, is the latest novel in their 'DJ Smith and Gorgonzola' cosy crime series. They are the first novels in the English language to have been jointly written by identical twins; each sentence is the work of two minds. Allison & Busby published the first two books, Robert Hale the next three, and now the Edinburgh-based Mulgray twins have turned to self-publishing to continue DJ Smith and Gorgonzola's adventures – this time featuring the tragic Mary Queen of Scots.

"She is famous worldwide, and we have linked places and events in her life in our modern plot, turning the readers into time travellers as they share the dramatic incidents in her life," say Helen and Morna. They have combined Mary's story with a modern murder mystery, in which drama group Act It Out are using historic re-enactments from Mary Queen of Scots' life as a cover-up for the distribution of drugs in central Scotland.

DJ Smith and her sniffer cat Gorgonzola join one of the tours, but she begins to suspect that some of her companions – an eerily self-convinced reincarnation of Mary Queen of Scots, a fanatical bagpipe player, a couple of sex-obsessed newlyweds – are bad actors and that in reality, they are couriers in the pay of the drug organisation. The book also features several Scottish locations associated with that tragic queen, including the historic Holyrood Palace, the fortified tower on Loch Leven island, and the ruined St Andrews Castle – all of which provide an excellent opportunity for murder...
