FELINE HEALING

Music producer John Schroeder's latest book explores the therapeutic powers of the cat

This gentle novel is not your run of the mill cat book, instead it is a story all about the calming powers of cats and how they can positively affect human lives.

It is an entertaining mixture of fantasy and reality.

“Cats have always been in and out of my life in one way or another providing love and support when I needed it most. At one time I found myself living with eleven of them!” observes John. “By chance I discovered the amazing healing power of the cat when one of my mother’s pets developed an unusual relationship with my father, who was sadly both deaf and blind.”

Buckingham was big, Buckingham was beautiful and the day he found his way into Angela Tillsworth’s life, neither she nor he were to ever look back. Surprisingly Angela was soon to discover that Buckingham possessed some extraordinary therapeutic powers, which were to ultimately affect a lot of people’s lives...

JOHN SCHROEDER has been heavily involved in the music industry for most of his life. From the 60s to the 80s he was employed by major record companies as a label manager, producer and song writer and has produced no less than one hundred and seventy artists. Virtually no field of popular music was untouched by his hand – from the pop/rock of Helen Shapiro and Status Quo to the orchestral jazz based stylings of Sounds Orchestral. He won the prestigious Ivor Novello award for ‘Walking Back To Happiness’ as the best song of the year in 1961. John was also responsible for bringing the Tamla Motown label to the UK. He later formed his own label, Alaska, signing a band named Cymande who still remain as being the first British black band to conquer America. John has just completed their fourth album.

Buckingham* is a delightful, beautifully illustrated story that explores the therapeutic powers of the cat.
